

Red Feather Mountain Library District Disaster Preparedness Policy

Reviewed by the Red Feather Mountain Library District Board of Trustees March 22, 2017.

The intent of the RFMLD Disaster Preparedness Policy is

- The preservation and well-being of human life.
- The ability, through adverse conditions, to continue the mission and operations of Red Feather Mountain Library District.
- Allow sufficient fore-planning to minimize the effects of adverse conditions.
- Provide access to resources to recover from the effects of unexpected events and disasters.

Disasters may be acts of nature or acts of man and may include (but not necessarily be limited to) flood, fire, storm, wind, the failure of library operational systems, failure of access to the library, acts of violence, vandalism, or social and political issues.

As the causes and results of disasters are varied so may be the response. Both planning and response is procedural as reflected in the resource list below. This list may be modified as needed without diminishing either the intent or effect of this policy.
