Space. Completing an accurate needs assessment and melding these needs with a long-range plan. I think of this as a challenge because it's easy to get spread too thin in our excitement to meet every need.

Use of space- I know it is tight and more would be helpful. Juggling money and resources to offer as much as possible. I know we have an older population in the area but hopefully the old view of a library just being about books won't keep you from doing new and innovative solutions to the issues our community faces.

Space for growing collections is always a challenge. It is hard to sacrifice one collection's space to accommodate another.

Getting people to realize that libraries are for everyone, and encouraging even those who haven't been in a library in quite some time to step in and see what they're missing. Get more Glacier View area residents to drive up to Red Feather instead of just heading toward Fort Collins.

Continuing to have enough volunteers

The biggest challenge that we have is our size. We are a small community with a high volume of use. We do weeding more often because to fit books on the shelves or other resources we need to create room. We are a take out one to get one size library. We have reached our maximum growth. Unless we loose what makes our library special.

1. A bigger library 2. More classes

Limited number of staff. Difficulty in expanding as communities grow. Water cost/availability. No popcorn.

Getting state and county leaders to value it as a true resource to mountain residents.

What challenges do you see for the library? (Library staff, volunteers, board) Page 2 February 24, 2020

Coming up with the appropriate funding for various library services, materials ect.

Space. The limited space will prevent further growth and opportunities to meet needs for the community.

Size and weather. Not sure how to improve either of those issues. Keeping our infrastructure up, making our grounds neat and tidy at all times, safe and fun.

difficulties in connecting with assistance for any projects.

Enough usage so that it continues to receive funding and public/community support

I don't know. I think it will always be important to keep the library in people's minds through emails, Nextdoor, fliers, book sales, etc.

Sometimes there is tension between staff. That can be a challenge. No challenge is too big to overcome if all parties work at it. See this as solvable.

Keeping up demands and volunteers.

As ever, funding for growth.

1/29/2020 2:27 PM

Too much done online and trying to get all ages to read books more and get out and enjoy the community through the library

Funding; limited staffing time; dispersed nature of the district; reaching potential and prospective clients. Improving service.
